

Marketing Manager

_be creative in the new financial world _

MONEYTIS

A new work philosophy in the 21st century, what would it be? Here is what it is for us: the workstyle has changed a lot and will keep changing in the coming years, we want to both create great products and live a life full of experiences and travels.

We love challenges, pleasant lifestyle, and are ready to work hard and chill out in a bar on the other side of the world. We like continuous improvement and want anybody who joins us to be learning by different means including traveling.

The startup helps students and expats moving money between countries and currencies by acting as the booking.com of money transfer: it searches for the fastest and cheapest money transfer in real time, thereby saving users hundreds of euros. Moneytis is run by an international team that moved to Amsterdam to join the ING Bank innovation studio.
